

TEAM ACTIVITIES

T

eam activities are Marmite. You either love them or hate them.

R emember, though: it can be very useful.

U

p to 70% more information is retained through activities than lectures, so it's great for learning!

imilarly, employees who take training programs and activities are 45% more likely to stay with their employer.

o that end, let's look at how we can improve the efficacy of your activities!

F irst of all, think about what you want to achieve. Your goals. Whether that's greater employee , team bonding or some learning objectives.

A fter that, think about your team: how many there are, what they'd enjoy. Ask them for their ideas!

imit workplace distractions like calls and emails by hosting your activities outside the workplace.

et third parties take charge of planning and hosting the event if you're really pressed for time.

till, you should keep having team activities as regularly as you need them, rather than just as one-offs.

And trust falls are lame. Cut them out.
